*may be taken from any first year topic across the University providing pre-requisites are met

 students should select topics so as to meet any prerequisite requirements for the third year specialisation they intend to pursue. With permission, students may select one topic (4.5 units) from the listed third year topics to count toward second year, so long as they meet the prerequisite requirements of the topic.

^ if students plan to complete the Bachelor of Medical Science with a specialisation they must complete at least 13.5 units (3 topics) from one the specialisations listed on the course rule. However, a specialisation in 3rd year is not a requirement for satisfactory completion of the Bachelor of Medical Science. A maximum of 4.5 units counted towards one specialisation may be counted towards any other specialisation.
